Allen's Local Anesthesia

This is a complete work on local and regional anesthesia. You get history and evolution, principles, physiology, toxicology, and technic. You get a chapter on nerves and sensation, giving particular attention to pain—what it is and its psychic control, and a chapter on osmosis and diffusion. Each local anesthetic is taken up in detail, giving very special attention to cocain and novocain, pointing out their action on the nervous system, the value of adrenalin, paralysis caused by cocain anesthesia, control of toxicity. You get Crile's method of administering adrenalin and salt solution, the exact way to produce the intra-dermal wheal, to pinch the flesh for the insertion of the needle—all shown you step by step. You get Crile's anoci-association; anesthesia by quinin and urea, and by the magnesium salts, spinal and epidural analgesia, paravertebral, parasacral, intra-arterial, intra-venous, and general anesthesia with local anesthetics. The production of local anesthesia in the various regions is taken up in detail. Abdominal work covers 50 pages, genito-urinary work and hernia another 50 pages. You get local anesthesia for rectal surgery, gynecologic operations, and Cesarean section; for head and skull work, for eye, ear, nose and throat work, and a large section on dental anesthesia.
